

Biennial Family Reunion Slated for August 20, 1994

The biennial Bennion Family Reunion has been scheduled for Saturday, August 20, 1994 at the Taylorsville Stake Center, 4845 South Woodhaven, (1365 West 4800 South, a.k.a. 4850 South), Taylorsville, Utah. (See map p. 5 for not getting lost).

Beginning at 4:00 p.m. we will have a jolly good time greeting family and friends, viewing displays, enjoying the traditional family picnic and the "historic" tug-of-war between the descendants of Samuel and John. Last year the Samuel Bennion team won the contest for the first time in recorded history. It is expected that this year John's descendants will be out for vengeance.

After the fun and games, the biennial family business meeting will be held at which our own Richard P. Lindsay will be our featured speaker. Richard has recently served as President of the Africa Area of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, during which time he traveled widely throughout Africa and has lived for three years in Johannesburg, South Africa.

Another feature of the meeting will be the "Changing of the Guard", the installation of a new presidency for the next two years. In addition, there will be reports on the activities of the Association and plans and hopes for the future.

We encourage your attendance and participation so that we may more fully meet the challenges and opportunities of The Bennion Family Association.

ORDER OF THE DAY: Bring your own family lunch. The FAMILY will provide soft drinks and dessert.

Bennion Family Recorder Survey Results

Several months ago we included in The Recorder a Survey to determine if the needs of the readers were being met. We were interested to see if we should change the content or format, and which items were most popular. The results are in!

Because we received relatively few responses (56 out of some 1950 copies sent) and also because the survey was not completed strictly scientifically, the results are interesting, but not statistically significant. Perhaps more people did not respond because, (1) there was no self-addressed, stamped envelope included (too expensive), or (2) people do not read The Recorder and therefore did not see the survey form, or (3) everything was great and The Recorder does not need to be changed? We're not really sure.

Following is the ranking of the survey results, listed by the most popular category first:

	Total	Average
1. Biography information	260	4.64
2. Family Pedigree Charts	245	4.38
3. Family Group Sheets	239	4.27
4. Copies of Original Doc.	232	4.14
5. Bennion Genealogy Books	231	4.13
6. Bennion Bits	224	4.00
7. Information on Reunions	212	3.79
8. Back Page Order Form	194	3.46
9. Bennion Family Poems	172	3.07

The average or mean values were determined by dividing the total points by the number of surveys returned. The general conclusion is that those responding were very pleased with the contents of The Recorder and the actual responses were mostly 4's and 5's. As indicated, the family stories ranked first and the poems last.

Of those responding 71% added comments. Some suggestions were to include a listing of the locations of significant family historical sites, both here and abroad; more pictures of ancestors; historical chronology summary of Samuel Bennion's life; information on how to use PAF; and to set up some local Bennion Family History workshops. These are all good suggestions. By far, though, the most common remark was "You are doing a great job - thank you for your work." It was gratifying to receive the feed back that The Recorder is read and appreciated by many of you. Thank you! We'll keep trying.

Errata

In the last issue of The Recorder, the story on Samuel Bennion's History included excerpts from Leonora Cannon Taylor's diary, in which her name was inadvertently misspelled. The correct spelling is "Leonora". We offer sincere apologies for the error.

The last issue of The Recorder included the Roberts Family Group Records. The Pedigree Chart shows only the Robert Roberts line. The Jones Pedigree Chart will be published when we publish the Elizabeth Jones Family Group Records.

The Robert Roberts Family Group Records inadvertently omitted the names of spouses, marriage and sealing dates for several of Elizabeth Roberts' siblings, although references were listed for sealing dates.

The same Robert Roberts Family Group Records are reprinted on page 7 in this issue to make those additions and corrections.

When will the new Bennion Family Book be ready?

GOOD QUESTION! Another good, and equally important question is, "When will some of the reticent Bennion Family representatives send their family information to Steve Bennion, so he can put it all together?" The answer to the first question depends specifically on the answer to the second.

We realize that many members of the family are communicating with each other and some of the data is flowing in from various branches of the family. However, there are too many with whom we have had little or no contact and too many missing branches of the family tree to produce a credible volume. It is apparent that other priorities seem to take precedence in our busy lives. We are finding that "Murphy's Law" is more pervasive than we had realized when we set the rather ambitious production schedule at the beginning of this project.

We must announce that "The Book" will

not be available at the Reunion, but draft copies of some major portions of the family, whose work is largely completed will be available for review and acquisition. We hope that the Reunion may also be used to establish further communication links to advance the gathering of information so that we may sometime soon go to press with this work. In the meantime, keep up the good work, reach out and contact our lost or missing Bennions and pass the information on to Steve. We will keep the process moving until some time soon we can go to press and get this project completed.

Farewell to Nauvoo

[A digest from Samuel & Mary's history]

As the wagons began the Exodus from Nauvoo, whether in winter when they crossed the frozen Mississippi and climbed up the snowy bank to the higher ground on the far side, or by ferry in the spring, following the path of those who had gone before, they all turned and looked once more at their beloved Nauvoo, the City of Joseph and the beautiful Temple, gleaming like a beacon on the hill, back across the river.

Of that experience Wilford Woodruff wrote, "I was in Nauvoo on the 26th day of May, 1846, for the last time, and left the City of the Saints, feeling that most likely I was taking a final farewell of Nauvoo for this life. I looked back upon the Temple and City as they receded from view and asked the Lord to remember the sacrifice of his Saints." <sup>1</sup>

From the Meeks diary, it was recorded, "The top of this hill was the last point from which I could see the Nauvoo Temple. I have no words with which to convey a proper conception of my feelings when taking a last look at this sacred monument of the living faith of the saints, and which was associated in their minds with the heavenly and holy. After the lapse of thirty-six years, I can scarcely restrain my feelings when I write of it."<sup>2</sup>

And so it was with the Bennions. On that 19th day of May 1846, Samuel wrote with his typical brevity, "we left our Nauvoo home to go West somewhere."<sup>3</sup> They turned for their last view of Nauvoo and the glistening Temple set upon the hill. Mary gazed at the pastoral scene across the river, but her thoughts were far beyond Nauvoo and the Temple. Her eyes glanced in the direction of the Nauvoo burial ground, and she envisioned her beautiful little Elizabeth, age fourteen months, who had survived the ocean crossing only to succumb to the frigid weather and disease so prevalent in the area. It had been in February, only three months earlier, when they had placed her there in the cold, frozen ground.

But Mary's vision didn't end there. It flew across the ocean where she saw again her comfortable home in West Darby, a suburb of Liverpool, not too far from where Samuel had his bakery and baker's supply shop. She saw again their two little boys who had been so healthy, happy and active. Then they had suddenly become ill, deathly ill. How she had cared for them so tenderly, but to no avail. First William, her handsome little two-year-old, had died. It was on a Saturday, November 30, 1844. Sorrowfully, Samuel had made his way to the Registrar's Office to record the death. He wrote, "William Bennion, 2 1/2, Scarlet Fever, Informant: Father, present at death."<sup>4</sup>

And James was also very ill. They had waited until Monday, December 2, for the burial of William, but on Monday, James, her precious little three-year-old, had died. And they were expecting their fourth child within a month!

She saw again the sad journey from West Darby to Huyton to bury the two children. She remembered her happy youth where she had grown up in Roby, in Huyton Parish. There the two little boys were buried in the Churchyard by the side of their grandfather, John Bushell.<sup>5</sup> Samuel waited until December 4, to make the second trip to the Registrar's Office to record James' death. Again he wrote, "James Bennion, 3 1/2 of scarlet fever. Informant, Father, Present at death".<sup>6</sup>

Meanwhile, preparations for the journey to Nauvoo were underway, and Christmas had been rather bleak that year!

The business had been sold in early November. Uncle William Bennion had been so helpful in getting Samuel started in a business of his own. Since Uncle William's son, cousin William, was not as responsible as his father had hoped, Samuel was the one selected to take care of Uncle Williams affairs, until the decision was made to move to Nauvoo.

Mary saw again the lovely two-story, red brick home they had built together only last summer, just a few miles east of Nauvoo. Samuel had hauled 32,000 bricks from Nauvoo so they could build it more quickly. She had been quite happy there, even though there had been some illness. Samuel and his father had been ill last summer when they were building the home, in spite of the fact that their property was situated several miles from the swampy river bottom where there was more serious sickness. It had cost $1,000 and much hard labor to build it. Now the home had been sold for only $250, part in trade, in the collapsed market brought on by the pressure of the forced exodus of the Saints. True, as the persecution escalated in and around Nauvoo, there had been "neighborly" burnings of haystacks, crops and homes, and even some harassing cannon fire not too far from their home.

But now, the wagons moved on, and she was brought back to the present. Even though she had not yet been baptised a Mormon, she was in the vanguard of the great migration to the west, into the vast wilderness, with Indians, deserts, mountains, wild animals and many unknowns. How grateful she was for John Rowland, her eldest son and that he had been spared to go with them to their new home in the West!

T-Shirts for the Family Reunion

The executive committee is thinking about printing up Bennion Family Reunion T-Shirts for the Reunion in August. These will be 100% cotton T-shirts, silk-screened with the date and logo or Bennion historical picture. They would sell for about $6.00 apiece. For those budding graphic artists out there, send in your art work before July 20 for the graphics and text.

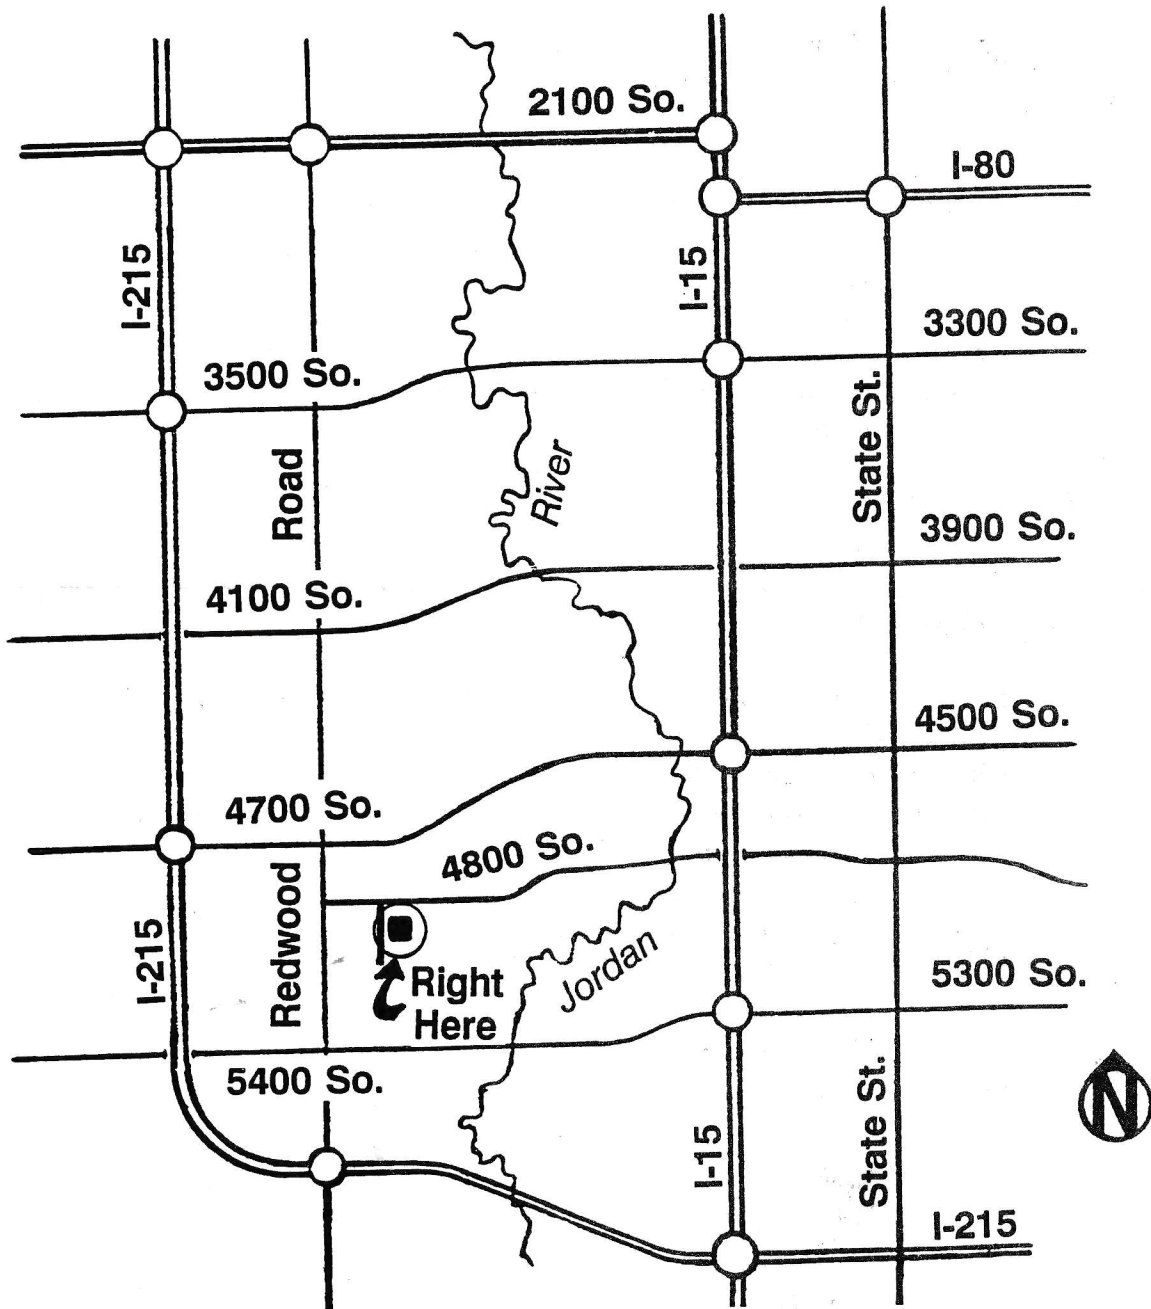

Who knows? Your suggestion may go down in History, not to mention a prize to be given at the Reunion to the winner.

For those interested in buying the T-shirts, please let us know your size and quantity so we can make an informed order. Send graphics entries and orders by July 20 to :

A Formula for Successful Families

This, then, is the tried and proven formula for rearing successful families. I commend the formula to you.

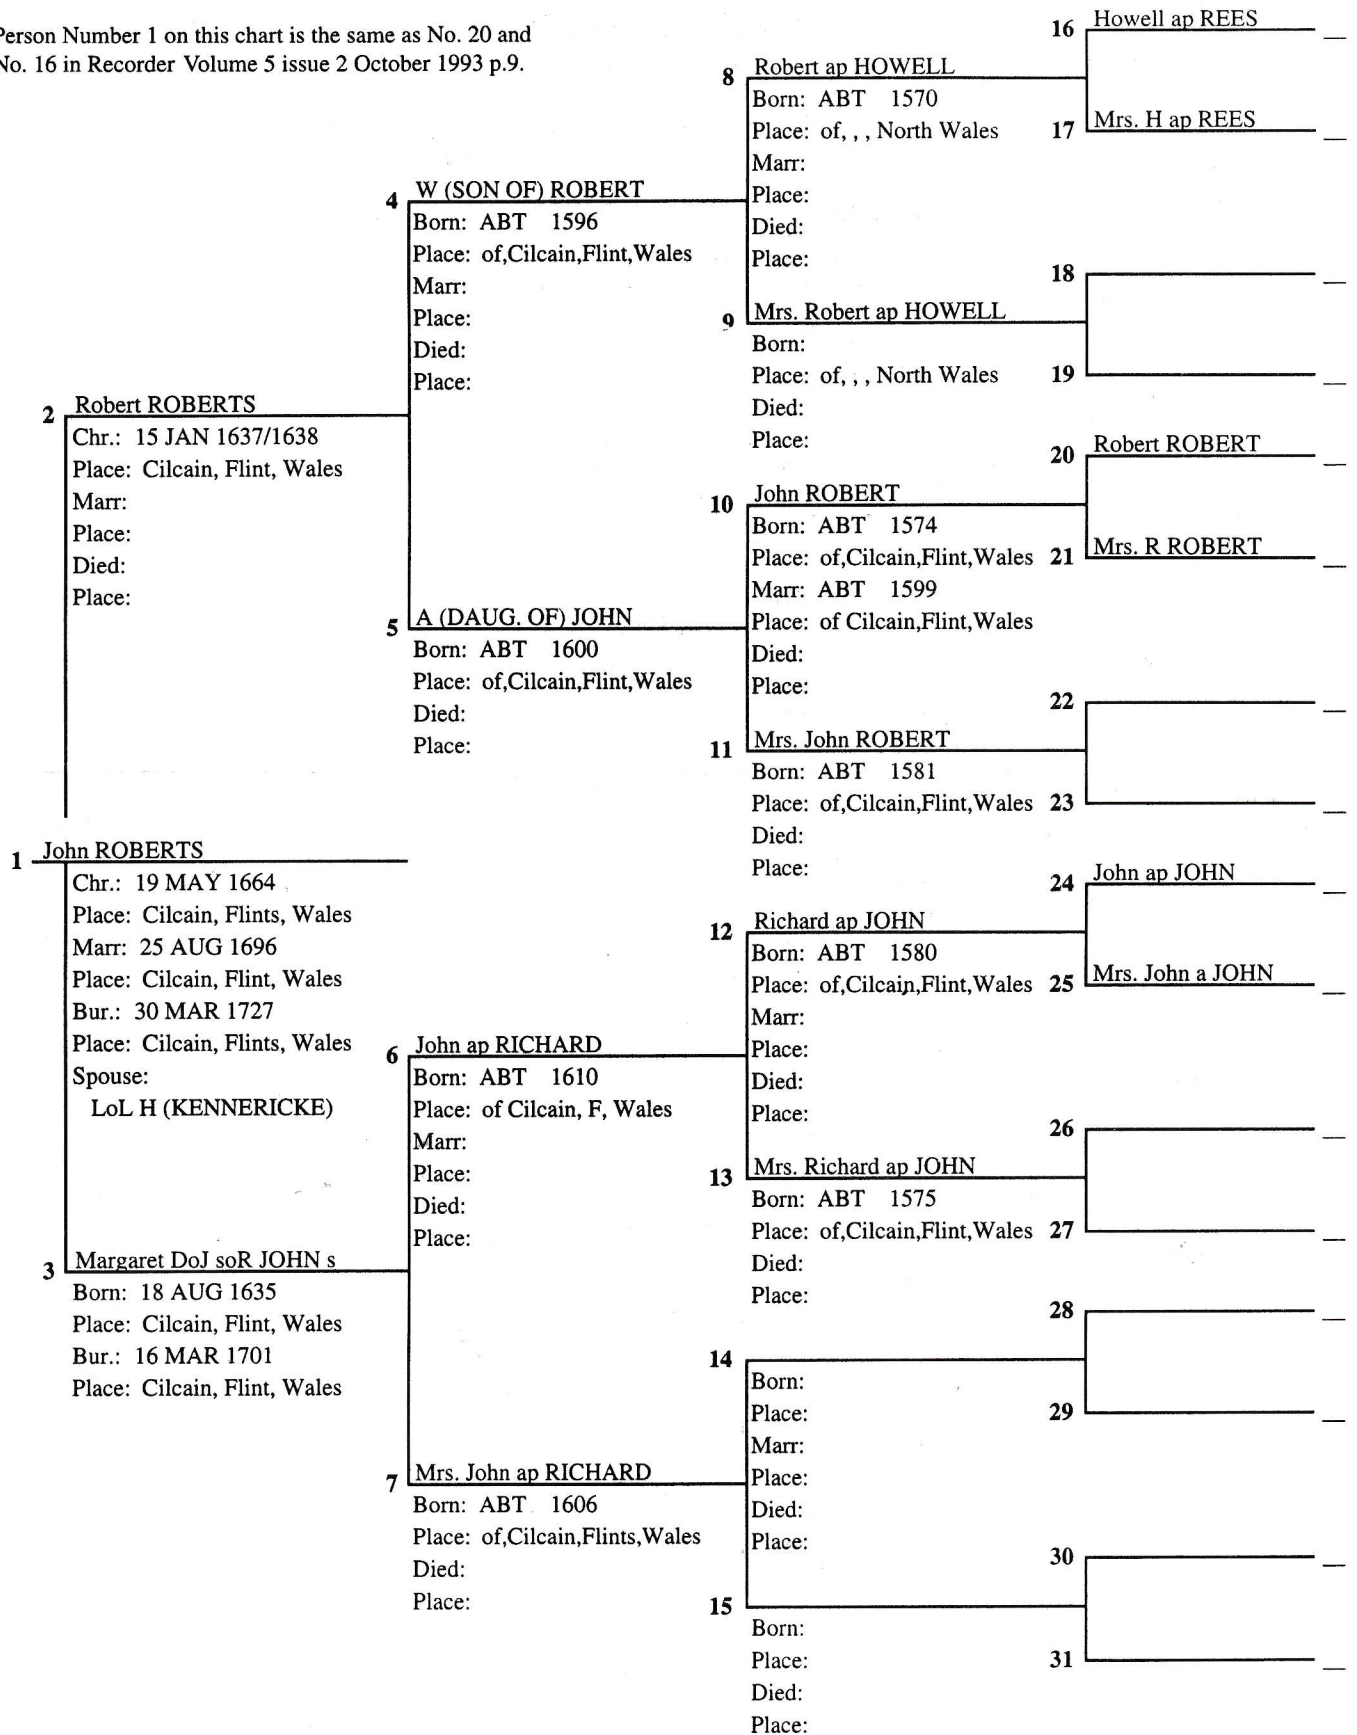

1. Successful families have love and respect for each family member. Family members know they are loved and appreciated.
2. Strong families cultivate and attribute of effective communication. They talk out their problems, make plans together, and cooperate toward common objectives.
3. Fathers and mothers in strong families stay close to their children. They talk.
4. Successful families try to work together toward solutions instead of resorting to criticism and contention. They pray for each other, discuss, and give encouragement.
5. Strong families support each other.
6. Successful families do things together: family projects, work, vacation, recreation, and reunions.
7. Successful parents have found that it is not easy to rear children in an environment polluted with evil. Therefore, they take deliberate steps to provide the best of wholesome influences. Moral principles are taught. Good books are made available and read. Television watching is controlled. Good and uplifting music is provided. But most importantly, the scriptures are read and discussed.
8. In successful Latter-day Saint homes, parents teach their children to understand faith in God, repentance, baptism, and the gift of the Holy Ghost.
9. Family prayer is a consistent practice in [successful] families. (Ensign, May 1984, pp. 6-7.)
